ACID MINE DRAINAGE

Chemical Stability of Manganese and Iron in Mine Drainage Treatment Sludge: Effects of Neutralization Chemical, Iron Concentration, and Sludge Age ................................................. 3
G. Watslaf and L. Casson

Engineering Evaluation of Waste Phosphatic Clay for Producing Low Permeability Barriers .................................................. 11
J. Bowers and E. Chiado

A Comparative Study of Tailings Analysis Using Acid/Base Accounting, Cells, Columns and Soxhlets ............................................. 19
W. Bradham and F. Caruccio

Long-Term Leaching of Mine Spoil With Simulated Precipitation .................................................. 27
H. Halverson and C. Gentry

Successful Reclamation Using Controlled Release Bactericides: Two Case Studies .................................................. 33
A. Sobek, D. Benedetti, and V. Rastogi

The Use of Phosphate Refuse as a Potential AMD Ameliorant .................................................. 43
W. Hart, A. Stiller, T. Rymer, and J. Renton

Advances in the Prediction and Control of Acid Mine Drainage .................................................. 51
P. Ziemkiewicz

Neutralization and Stabilization of Combined Refuse Using Lime Kiln Dust at High Power Mountain .................................................. 55
D. Rich and K. Hutchison

Some Aspects of SSPE/PSM Modeling for Quantitative Assessment of Disturbed Hydrological Systems .................................................. 61
T. Rymer, A. Stiller, W. Hart, and J. Renton

Coal Refuse Reclamation: Effects of Topsoil Thickness on the Growth and Maintenance of Vegetation .................................................. 69
R. Kolbash, J. Freeman, T. Romanoski, and J. Sturm

Mine Drainage Bioremediation - The Evolution of the Technology from Microbes to Bio-Carb .................................................. 71
J. Davison
EVALUATING RECLAMATION SUCCESS: ECOLOGICAL CONSIDERATIONS

Minesoil Morphology and Genesis .................................................. 79
J. Sencindiver, D. Dollhopf, L. Daniels

Nutrient Cycling: The Key to Reclamation Success? ......................... 81
J. Palmer

Soil Microbial Processes and Dynamics: Their Importance to Effective Reclamation .................................................. 83
J. Zak and S. Visser

The Use of Mycorrhizal Fungi in Reclaiming a Landscape: Importance and Predictability .................................................. 85
M. Allen and C. Friese

Faunal Community Development on Disturbed Lands: An Indicator of Reclamation Success .................................................. 87
R. Farmenter and J. MacMahon

Seed and Seedbed Ecology .................................................. 89
J. Young

Evaluating Community Level Processes to Determine Reclamation Success .................................................. 91
E. Allen

Successional Processes: Importance for Obtaining and Evaluating Reclamation Success .................................................. 93
J. MacMahon, J. Chambers, and G. Wade

Landscape Ecology and Reclamation Success ........................................ 95
P. Tueller

Cumulative Effects of Mining on Hydrology, Water Quality, and Vegetation .................................................. 97
H. Halverson and R. Sidle

Ecological Importance of Post-reclamation Land Uses on Evaluating Reclamation Success .................................................. 99
R. Ries and R. Hedin

MINESOIL PRODUCTIVITY AND POSTMINING LAND USES

Guide for Selecting an Appropriate Method to Analyze the Stability of Slopes on Reclaimed Surface Mines .................................................. 103
J. Bowders and S. Lee

Application of the Principles of Microbial Ecology to the Assessment of Surface Mine Reclamation .................................................. 111
J. Harris and P. Birch

Forage Production on a Minesoil in Southern West Virginia .................................................. 121
B. Wolf, L. Emerson, and J. Sencindiver

Organic Matter Dynamics on Reclaimed Coal Mines in the Canadian Rockies .................................................. 127
P. Ziemkiewicz and S. Takyl

Evaluation of Minesoil Quality and Capability in Alberta, Canada .................................................. 135
T. Macyk

Managing Restored Prime Farmland for Corn Production .................................................. 143
R. Barnhisel and R. Gray

RECLAMATION FOR IMPROVED LAND USE IN APPALACHIA

Variances from "Approximate Original Contour" Requirements in Central Appalachia: History and Prospects .................................................. 153
C. Zipper

Mined Land Reclamation for Wood Production in the Appalachian Region .................................................. 159
J. Burger and J. Torbert
The Feasibility of Large-Scale Sewage Sludge/Compost Utilization on Central Appalachian Surface Mined Lands ......................... 165
W. Daniels and K. Haering

Occurrence of Ground Water in Mine Spoil, A Renewable Resource: Star Fire Tract, Eastern Kentucky ......................... 171
J. Dinger, D. Wunsch, and J. Kemp

Innovative Design for Improved Mining Economics and Land Use ..................... 181
T. Keeney and G. Hall

The Land Use Planning Process As Applied to a Mountaintop Removal Coal Mine Site in Eastern Kentucky ......................... 185
T. Nieman and D. Meshako

RECLAMATION POLICY AND REGULATORY ISSUES

Evaluation of Methods to Determine Plant Productivity for Bond Release ........ 193
J. Skousen

Mineral Resources Policies and the Construction Aggregate Industry .............. 204
A. Bauer

Reclamation Practice, Perceptions and Policy: The Australian Experience ........ 205
D. Whitrow

MINING, RECLAMATION AND THE MEDIA

Panelists: A. Sanda (Coal Magazine) .......................................... 210
P. Myden (Charleston Gazette) ............................................. 209
N. Kilpatrick (Surface Mining Research Library) ................................ 209
E. Smith (Mine Regulation Reporter) ........................................ 210

OVERBURDEN ANALYSIS

Evaluation of Acid Base Accounting Data Using Computer Spreadsheets ........ 213
M. Smith and K. Brady

Effectiveness of the Addition of Alkaline Materials at Surface Coal Mines in Preventing and Abating Acid Mine Drainage: Part 1. Geochemical Considerations .................................................. 221
C. Cravotta III, K. Brady, M. Smith, and R. Beam

Effectiveness of the Addition of Alkaline Materials at Surface Coal Mines in Preventing and Abating Acid Mine Drainage: Part 2. Mine Site Case Studies .... 227
K. Brady, M. Smith, R. Beam, and C. Cravotta III

The Use of CO₂ Coulometry in Differentiating and Quantifying the Carbonate Phases in the Coal-Bearing Strata of Western Pennsylvania: Its Applicability in Interpreting and Modifying Neutralization Potential (NP) Measurements .......... 243
J. Morrison, S. Atkinson, A. Davis, and B. Scheetz

Delineation of Potential Manganese Sources in the Coal Overburdens of Western Pennsylvania .............................................. 249
J. Morrison, S. Atkinson, and B. Scheetz

The Effect of Oxygen on Pyrite Oxidation .................................. 257
R. Hammad and G. Watzlaf

An Application of Acid-Base Accounting for Highway Construction in East Tennessee . 265
J. Ammons, C. Coburn, Jr., and P. Shelton
