The foremost organization dedicated to the reclamation and rehabilitation of distressed land and waterways, the American Society of Mining and Reclamation publishes our magazine twice a year. Established in 1983 to serve the mining and reclamation community, the ASMR and the ASMR Magazine, Reclamation Matters, provides a voice for scientific research and profiles major reclamation features from an ASMR viewpoint. Our total distribution of the magazine is 5,000 copies, to industry, to engineers, to investors, and to other like-minded groups and individuals responsible for the reclamation, re-vegetation, and revitalization of our land and waterways. Our spring issue will also be distributed at our annual conference, this year in Billings, Montana, May 30 - June 5, 2009.
PLEASE RETURN FAX TO: 1.866.711.5282

Date: __________________________________________
Attention: _______________________________________
Company: _________________________________________
Address: _________________________________________
Town/City: _________________________________________
Postal/Zip: _________________________________________
Phone: ____________________________________________
Fax: _______________________________________________

Size: _____________________________________________
Rate: _____________________________________________
Position: _________________________________________
Color: ____________________________________________
Artwork: _________________________________________
Total: ____________________________________________

Please authorize and return by fax today to 1.866.711.5282 to ensure space reservation.

Name: __________________________________________
Signature: _______________________________________
PO/IO ___________________________________________